Suspect: Patty Putter - Location: The Pro-Shop - Weapon: Starting Pistol

Ladies and gentlemen, prepare yourselves for the shocking revelation behind the murder of the surveyor at the golf course. Through the collective efforts of our investigation, we have uncovered the identity of the culprit, the location of the crime, and the unconventional weapon used in this tragic incident.

The sinister truth unfolds with Patty Putter, an accomplished golfer but repeatedly overshadowed by her rival, Edith Eagle, in the club championship. Year after year, Patty had fallen short by a mere few strokes, and it appeared that this year would be no different, given her consistently slightly higher average score. The pressure to improve her short game weighed heavily on her mind.

Patty found herself in the Pro-Shop, entering her most recent scores into the system. As she did, her gaze fell upon Edith's recent scorecard left carelessly beside the computer. A surge of jealousy coursed through her as she contemplated Edith's impressive performance. Edith, it seemed, excelled at everything she set her mind to. Patty had high hopes of winning this year's championship because it may be her last opportunity. And with the golf course being located on what was once her family's farm, it carries tremendous meaning for her.

Resting her purse on the counter, Patty's eyes then fixated on Calvin Callaway's starting pistol, casually placed nearby. It had been used earlier that day in a tournament for the shot-gun start. She remembered that Edith had exhibited skill in marksmanship as well, adding to her list of talents. Consumed by her envy, Patty impulsively picked up the pistol, aiming it at the mannequins in the shop as if to pretend a marksmanship contest. "Why did that medical company have to come here and ruin everything?" she thought.

However, Patty's jealousy and despair blinded her to her surroundings, and she remained oblivious to the fact that the surveyor had quietly entered the Pro-Shop behind her. In an ill-fated moment, he tapped her on the shoulder to gain her attention, and in her startled reaction, the pistol discharged! Though the gun contained only blanks, the point-blank shot inflicted severe injuries upon the surveyor.

Panicked and desperate to flee, Patty hastily gathered her belongings and made a swift exit from the Pro-Shop. Unbeknownst to her, her scorecard fell to the floor in the process. The next morning, as investigators arrived at the scene, they discovered Patty's scorecard lying beside the surveyor's lifeless body, leading them directly to the culprit. Envy had driven Patty to commit this heinous act.

Patty Putter, in a moment of intense envy, has been exposed as the perpetrator of this crime. The golf course can now begin to heal from this terrible tragedy, though it will forever bear the scars of jealousy that unfolded within its serene grounds.

If your verdict listed: Patty Putter as the Culprit, the Pro Shop as the Location, and the Starting Pistol as the Weapon, congratulations on solving our Buried in the Rough Golf Mystery!
